

HOW BUYING WORKS

Sell what new accounts can't. Covered at every step.

Aged, vetted Amazon, Walmart & eBay seller accounts with years of trust already built in. You inspect everything live before any money moves — then our team transfers full ownership to you, and you start selling.

• ONE OF ONE • NEVER RELISTED

— WHY AGED

Buy the years, skip the wait.

Every marketplace makes new sellers spend years earning trust. An aged account comes with that trust already built — what it unlocks depends on the platform, and on what matters for your business.

— THE PROCESS

From first message to handover

Refined over 1,700+ transfers since 2020. Everything in writing before any money moves.

- 1  Browse Inventory
Tell us what you need — platform, brand approvals, capacity, pay schedule. We match you with the right account from our vetted inventory.
- 2  Demo Call
Jump on a Zoom call. We screen-share the account live — you see the seller dashboard, brand approvals, metrics, and history. No screenshots, no guesswork.
- 3  Choose Your Account
Pick the account that fits your business. We'll walk you through every detail — ungating, capacity, reserve status, Brand Registry eligibility.
- 4  Secure Purchase
Sign the mutual Deal Agreement — locks in deal terms, delivery timeline, and refund mechanics before any money moves. Pay by wire, ACH, card, or crypto (3% processing fee on card only). The Asset Purchase Agreement is signed during onboarding against your operating company for full legal paper trail. Both sides protected from day one.
- 5  Account Delivery
Standard handover in 10-14 days when Amazon doesn't ask for additional verification. About half of all transfers hit Amazon-side checks (ID, bank, video, address) — we handle every one of them on your behalf, so realistic full process is 30-60 days. Backed by our 30-day post-transfer support guarantee.

The Replace-or-Refund Guarantee

If the account isn't what you inspected on the live demo, we source an equivalent replacement. If we can't find one within 30 days, every dollar back within 10 business days, same payment method — written into the Deal Agreement you sign before any money moves, and backed by a lawyer-drafted APA at onboarding.

Replacement-first, because what you wanted was the account, not your money back. It's how 1,700+ transfers have produced zero unresolved disputes.

Still deciding? A $1,000 fully-refundable hold locks the account for 24 hours.

Anchored to the account's state at delivery. Support window: 30 days from credential handover or your first sale, whichever comes first.

— WHY BUYERS PAY OUR PRICE

The structure is the difference.

The biggest fear in this market — especially on Amazon — is losing the account in the transfer. Most brokers hand you the credentials and leave the ownership change to you: weeks of work done right, someone else's identity if not — one verification away from a lockout. We run the full change through the marketplace's own verifications, replace-or-refund underneath. Across 50+ Amazon video verifications with our buyers, exactly one has ever been declined.

	SELLERACCOUNTS	TYPICAL BROKER
Inspection before payment	✓ Guided live walkthrough, every question answered	Screenshots, or a login and you're on your own
Terms before money moves	✓ Deal Agreement, then lawyer-drafted APA	Verbal promises
If the account isn't as shown	✓ Replacement-or-refund, in writing	"Trust me"
The transfer itself	✓ Full ownership change in the marketplace	Credentials dump
Suspension risk in transfer	✓ On us — we run every verification, with replace-or-refund underneath	On you — buyer and seller handle it alone
Onboarding & delivery	✓ Secure client portal — documents, steps and progress in one place	Loose files in chat threads
After the sale	✓ 30-day support, direct line, check-in call	Gone after payment

When those are missing, the lower price is just the cost of the risk you're taking on.

— QUESTIONS BUYERS ASK

Is buying an Amazon seller account legal?

Yes. Account ownership transfers are standard business-asset sales, governed by a mutual Deal Agreement and a separate Asset Purchase Agreement (APA) signed against your operating company. Both documents are drafted by M&A lawyers familiar with multi-million-dollar FBA acquisitions. We've completed 1,700+ transfers since 2020 with zero unresolved disputes.

What documents do I sign and when?

Two documents. The Deal Agreement is signed before payment — the primary mutual contract that locks in terms, timeline, refund mechanics, and what we commit to deliver. The Asset Purchase Agreement (APA) is signed during onboarding against your operating company — optional but recommended. The APA adds the formal asset-transfer paper trail, additional guarantees (suspension, reserve, brand-gating), and Wyoming arbitration in case of dispute.

How does the transfer process work? How long does it take?

After we agree on terms, you sign the Deal Agreement and pay (wire, ACH, card, or crypto — card has a 3% processing fee). You get access to your client portal and onboarding begins. The APA is signed during onboarding against your operating company. Standard transfer is 10-14 days when Amazon's INFORM Act verifications clear on first try. About half of transfers need at least one re-submission (ID, bank, address, phone, tax ID), extending the realistic full window to 30-60 days. We handle every Amazon interaction for you. Refined over 1,700+ transfers and 6+ years.

What's included with an account?

Every account includes: the seller account itself, all brand approvals and ungating, sales history, seller feedback, FBA capacity, and any Brand Registry eligibility. We demo every account live on Zoom before you buy — you see exactly what you're getting.

How is my payment protected?

Every purchase is governed by a mutual Deal Agreement, signed before payment, that locks us to deliver the inspected account or source a replacement. If no suitable replacement is found within 30 days of a trigger event, we issue a full refund within 10 business days via the same payment method you paid with. The Asset Purchase Agreement, signed during onboarding against your operating company, adds the formal legal paper trail and Wyoming arbitration framework. 1,700+ transfers since 2020 — zero unresolved disputes.

What if I want a refund?

Replacement-first. If the account doesn't match what you inspected on the live demo (where we screen-share the actual dashboard pre-purchase), we source a suitable replacement. If no replacement is found within 30 days of the trigger event, we refund the full Purchase Price within 10 business days via the same payment method you paid with.

What if something goes wrong after the transfer?

x

You're covered for 30 days from credential delivery, or until your first sale — whichever comes first. The Support Window covers Amazon-side issues: verification re-submissions, suspension appeals on issues that pre-existed the transfer, login or anti-linking help, INFORM Act re-verifications, onboarding follow-up. Anything triggered by your selling activity (sales-volume reserves, product compliance, IP claims, ODR, performance metrics) sits with you. Replacement-first for any seller-side issue; full refund if no replacement works.

How much does an aged Amazon seller account cost?

Pricing varies widely with age, lifetime sales, brand approvals, FBA capacity, Brand Registry, and platform. Amazon accounts start around $8K and go all the way up to $150K+ for premium brand-registered accounts with extensive ungating and serious capacity. Walmart accounts start around $5K, eBay around $4K. We give exact pricing on a live demo where we screen-share the actual account so you see what you're paying for.

Can I buy an Amazon seller account from outside the US?

Yes — most of our buyers are international. A US-registered operating company (typically a Wyoming or Delaware LLC) is what we recommend for selling in the US market — cleanest setup for ownership, INFORM Act compliance, and banking. But we also deliver and transfer accounts to non-US entities when that's the right fit for your situation. We'll figure out the right structure together on the demo call.

Do I need a US LLC to buy an aged account?

x

Not obligatory. Account ownership can transfer to a US LLC, a non-US company, or an individual depending on your setup. A US LLC is the cleanest path for selling in the US market — owning the asset, INFORM Act compliance, and banking. If you don't already have one, we can help set it up during onboarding — typically a $300-500 process that takes a few business days. If you have a non-US company or want to own personally, we work with that too.

How do you prevent Amazon from detecting the ownership change?

We follow a specific protocol refined over 1,700+ transfers: pre-warming the new device + IP + phone setup, gradual ownership-data changes (with INFORM Act passing first), then full handover only after Amazon-side verifications clear. We're not hiding the transfer from Amazon — INFORM Act explicitly requires re-verification on ownership change, and we pass it. The protocol exists to keep the account compliant and stable through the transition, not to evade Amazon.

Can I use this for wholesale, arbitrage, or private label?

x

Yes. Our buyers use aged accounts for wholesale (most common), retail/online arbitrage, and private label. The key advantage is brand ungating — accounts come pre-approved for restricted brands and gated categories that new accounts often can't even apply for.

Can I buy multiple aged accounts to diversify risk? x

Yes. Many of our sophisticated buyers run 2-3 independent aged accounts side by side — separate LLCs, separate IPs, separate payment methods, separate operational setups. We deliver each with full anti-linking configuration so a hit on one account doesn't cascade to the rest. Multi-account diversification is one of the strongest reasons established sellers buy with us.

Do you help suspended sellers? x

No. If you've been suspended on Amazon, we won't sell you another account — buying a new account to bypass a suspension circumvents Amazon's policies, which would put the new account at immediate risk and isn't something we'll be part of. We'd rather lose the deal than burn an account or our track record.

Every account is one of one. When it's claimed, it's gone.

Message us to claim your account — or with anything still open. You never pay before you inspect.

Still deciding? A $1,000 fully-refundable hold locks your account for 24 hours.
